

Literary History
Journal of literary studies

Institute for Literature and Art
Kralja Milana 2, Beograd

Dear Colleague,

The Editorial Board of Literary History would like to thank you for agreeing to review a paper submitted for publication.

The papers receive a double-blind peer review. In the case of conflicting peer reviews or special, subsequently established circumstances significant for the paper's evaluation, the final decision regarding its publication will be made by the Editorial Board.

As the publisher, the Institute for Literature and Art is currently not in the position to pay the reviewers for their reviews.

If the reviewer recommends a paper for publication conditionally, he/she can ask to view the revised version of the paper in order to ascertain if his/her requests have been complied with, or he/she can leave this to the Editor-in-Chief.

(Please type the answers to questions 3, 4, 5 and 7 in bold face)

1. Title of the contribution
2. Length (number of pages)
3. Does the paper meet the requirements stated in the Guidelines for manuscript preparation?

Yes Partly No

4. Classification of the contribution:

Original scientific paper
Review article
Literary criticism
Literary materials

5. Is the paper suitable for publication in the Literary History?
Yes Yes, with additional elaboration and revision No

Exposition (a descriptive evaluation of the topicality and scientific relevance of the research topic, the theoretical and methodological foundations of the paper, the innovativeness of the theses displayed, the relevance of the references cited, etc. We also kindly ask the reviewers to be as elaborate as possible in their comments, whether the evaluation is positive or negative)

6. Necessary elaborations and revisions

7. Does the reviewer require reading the paper once again after the revisions?

YES

NO

Reviewer: [Name, Last Name, Title and Affiliation]

Date and Place: